

Arts engagement

These sessions are designed to enhance visual literacy and develop technical and creative skills. Art workshops include an interactive talk as well as practical art-making activities. You can also enjoy a tour of the house and learn more about a topic of your choice.

Outdoor learning

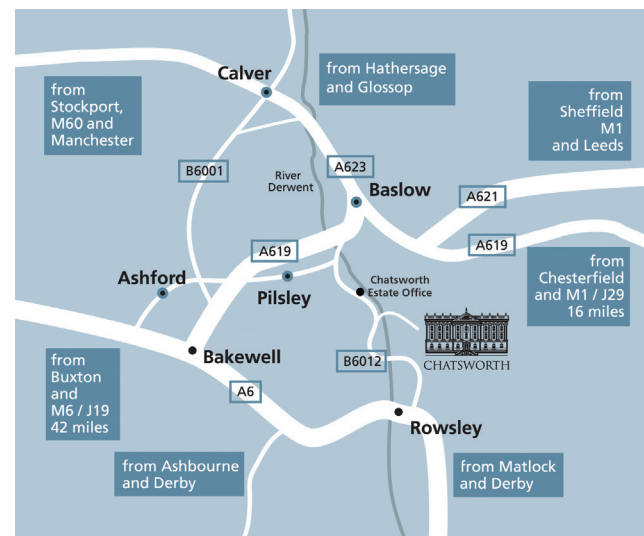

Outdoor learning sessions take place in the farmyard, garden, learning centres and Stand wood. They include a range of multisensory and hands-on activities to develop environmental literacy.

Accessibility

Chatsworth is committed to making its education visits as inclusive and accessible as possible. If your group has any special educational needs, dietary or medical requirements, physical, sensory, social, emotional or mental health needs, please contact us and we will be happy to discuss with you how best to adapt sessions to meet the needs of your group.

Learning CHATSWORTH

Learning at Chatsworth in 2020

Learning sessions at Chatsworth are tailored to enrich the topics you're studying in the classroom. Our programme of arts engagement and outdoor learning is focused on treasures from the collection, as well as the built and natural environments which make a visit here unforgettable. Your session will be curriculum-linked and hands-on, meeting a broad range of needs and learning styles.

You and your pupils can explore Chatsworth by:

- Engaging in an art or outdoor session in one of our learning centres
- Visiting the farmyard for a multisensory session
- Taking a tour of the house or garden

The house, garden, farmyard and learning centres can be accessed:

- By booking a talk, tour, art or outdoor learning workshop led by one of our expert facilitators
- As part of a self-guided visit

More information about our learning sessions can be found at chatsworth.org/learning

Our learning centres are available to hire. Contact us at education@chatsworth.org for more information.

All of our learning sessions feature cross-curricular links
